

Hi Everyone,

Feel free to share information about a fascinating documentary about child trafficking in Ghana (on Monday night on PBS). The three boys featured in the film are being cared for by Breaking the Chain Through Education. Since everyone is stuck at home, I thought this could be a good opportunity.

World Premiere: The Rescue List

The Rescue List is an intimate documentary following three children who are rescued from modern slavery on Lake Volta in Ghana. Through patiently observed scenes, the film draws into focus the complex circumstances under which children are trafficked and the challenges of recovery and reunification. Tracking their lives over the course of a year as the children prepare to return home, this tender, tensely wrought film places the children at the center of the narrative – revealing a moving story of survival, courage, and hope.

Evan Robbins, founder of the charity Breaking the Chain Through Education (BTCTE), has rescued dozens of children from slavery and sustained them in freedom. Among his charges are all three children at the center of the film.

Last summer the staff of BTCTE became aware that these boys were struggling to stay in school and were often hungry. BTCTE is providing long term support to these children, along with 100 other victims of child trafficking.

I will arrange a Zoom Q & A to give updates on the children featured in the film and the work of BTCTE at 8:00 on Wednesday evening.

Evan Robbins is inviting you to a scheduled Zoom meeting.
